Two killed, one wounded while hunting

Two men are dead and another is seriously wounded as the result of hunting accidents during the first week of deer season in Haliburton County this year. In addition to these shootings, two more men suffered fatal heart attacks while hunting in the county.

Twenty-eight-year-old Bill Hogg of Minden was in St. Joseph's Hospital in Toronto last Monday for surgery to remove the remaining two shots after he was wounded by a hunting partner on November 6 in Anson Township.

Minden OPP Constable Al Bibby said Hogg was hit with seven of the 15 pellets fired from a shot gun. He was taken by air ambulance to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay for treatment and later transferred to Toronto.

It was reported to the police that Jim McKelvey, 23, of Minden was firing at a deer and Hogg was beyond the deer in the path of the shot. McKelvey has been charged with careless hunting under the Provincial Game and Fish Act.

At the start of the second week of the deer season last Monday, Minden OPP were calling this the worst year for hunting accidents in recent memory. Normally, there are two or three hunting accidents in the county each season, and OPP Sergeant Bill Bailey says this is the worst year he can recall in his eight years with the force.

George Fellows, 59, of Waterdown was killed on October 21 when he fell on his .30-.30 calibre rifle at 4 p.m. in Clyde Township. This accident was investigated by Whitney OPP.

Alfred McColl, 78, of Haliburton, died of a heart attack after shooting a deer near Eagle Lake in Dysart Township on the morning of November 2.

Two days later, while standing on a ridge in Guilford Township off County Rd. 7, 68-year-old Joseph Abersek also died of a heart attack.

The most recent accident happened at 2 p.m. on November 7 when Kurt Kelch, 57, of Dundas was killed by his own weapon. Police report that he was walking in Havelock Township when his .308 calibre rifle discharged and Kelch was killed.

While the Redmen hockey team was having its trouble on the ice, the Pep Band helped keep the audience cheering during their game against Campbellford at Dysart arena last Tuesday. The Redmen showed a lot of talent but suffered a 5-2 loss. Shown here holding the banner are Cliff Smith and Cory Little while band members are Andy Cooper, teacher Rick Vaughan, Laura Cross, Corry Ziorjen and Richard Beers.

Hangar expansion okayed

To accommodate a new short take-off and landing plane recently purchased by Steve Wilcox, Stanhope Township Council gave its permission for him to expand one of the hangars at the Stanhope Municipal Airport.

At last Wednesday's meeting, Wilcox told council he is planning to operate his charter service throughout the winter, but his new plane has a 39 foot wing span and the doors to the hangars are only 39.5 feet wide. He was asking for permission to widen the door on one of the hangars.

While this would solve his problems, the airport committee felt it might create other problems with the plane encroaching on the adjacent hangar.

A number of alternatives were bandied about, and both parties finally agreed to permit Wilcox to expand the most easterly hangar.

Wilcox will bear the expense of the expansion and will be allowed two years of free rent in exchange.

One of the other options proposed was for Wilcox to build a whole new hangar in exchange for ten years of free rent. While Wilcox liked this proposal, he said the uncertainty of the future of the airport makes it less appealing. He said that if the airport does not get the funding it needs, it is possible that it could be closed within that ten years.

"If there was a more definite disposition of the airport, I would definitely consider putting in a hangar," said Wilcox. He told council that he could even see hiring a full-time mechanic as a possibility.

Wilcox said the airport is a great asset to the area and the benefits would be enhanced if funding was made available. However, because of the uncertainty of funding, he was not in favour of investing money into a new hangar.

Virgil Baxter (Michael Gilhooly) needs a little coaxing to be quiet during rehearsal for the Highlands Little Theatre production of "Let's Murder Marsha." Shown here, from the left, are the play's cast Glenn Carter, Elaine Schmidt, Doug Brohm, Eleanor Cooper and Anne Creelman. The show will be presented at HHSS auditorium November 19, 20 and 21 at 8 p.m. For more pictures see page six.

Parking problems resolved for Wild Water Preserve

In an effort to eliminate parking problems during major events at the Minden White Water Preserve, race organizers have been asked to keep Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships council better informed of their activities.

Representing Ontario Wildwater Affiliation, Roger Parsons was on hand at last Thursday's council meeting to discuss the parking problem.

Councillor Bob Sisson pointed out that during the National championship races this past summer, there were cars parked all along Horseshoe Lake Road near the white water course. He asked if the club would be willing to put in a parking lot on its property to eliminate the problem.

Parsons responded that the club can not afford to build a parking lot at this time and expressed dissatisfaction with the local response to the events.

"I'm quite often disappointed with people in Minden," said Parsons. He noted that other areas with world-class facilities are spending tremendous amounts of money on improvements to increase the tourist draw. The White Water Preserve benefits the community, yet people complain when they are inconvenienced for a few days, he said. "We try to entice something here for the tourists."

Acting Reeve Bern Berry was not objecting to the races, but said the parking problem could be eliminated through improved communications between the council and the club.

To this, Parsons apologized for not providing better notice of the Nationals. He said Minden was saddled with the race when another club had to pull out. He promised to make council aware of the events for next summer. He also promised to make council aware of any plans for work on the course, although he said nothing is planned for the next few years.

100 enjoy variety night

More than 100 people were treated to a night of high-calibre entertainment at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School on November 7 as the local Help A Village Effort (HAVE) held its annual variety evening.

In addition to a wide array of talented local musicians, the large audience was treated to a unique showing of dance and music by a group of Tibetan Dancers from Lindsay.

Saturday's concert also marked the close of a successful year of fund raising by HAVE. At last year's concert it was announced that the committee would be starting an effort to raise more than $60,000 to fund a health plan for the most impoverished areas of the Crissa State in India. The committee is now on the brink of reaching this objective.

The entertainment at this year's show was provided by songwriter and pianist Doug Cutler; the brass Quintet of Walter Barnes, Glen Carter, Ann Hemphill, John Stouffer and Rick Vaughan; the Tibetan Dancers; the Masonic Men's Choir; a saxophone solo by Rick Vaughan with accompaniment from Bill Gliddon; and a musical ending by Nancy Robichaud, Maggie Milne,

John Miller and Janelle Robinson. Donations were being accepted at the door to help the local volunteer group reach its goal. Anyone interested in making contributions to help the committee help others should contact HAVE treasurer John Stouffer, Box 541, Haliburton.

A large audience turned out to the annual Haliburton Artists Variety Evening put on by the local Help A Village Effort committee Saturday, November 7 at the HHSS auditorium. A Brass Quintet was one of many groups to entertain the audience that evening. Members of the quintet, from the left, include Rick Vaughan, John Stouffer, Walter Barnes, Ann Hemphill and Glen Carter.

Road oil not available

Residents of Shangrila and Elmar Roads in Stanhope Township can rest assured that road crews will no longer be using oil as a method of dust control.

Addressing a petition objecting to the use of oil spray on certain roads at last Wednesday's meeting, Stanhope Council noted that there can be no argument since the supply of road oil has ceased.

About a month ago, Stanhope council received a letter from the company that has traditionally provided the oil for dust control on area roads. The company had indicated that, because of environmental concerns, it will no longer be providing the oil.

The petition, signed by 58 residents of Shangrila and Elmar Roads, raised similar arguments against the use of road oil as those expressed earlier in the letter from the company. The residents complained of the smell of the oil as well as damage to wells and lakes from contaminants in the crank-case oil.

With road oil no longer being available, however, council will have to look to other, more costly alternatives for dust control. Calcium chloride is commonly used for dust control in Ontario's provincial parks, but council felt this option be considerably more costly than oil was.

OPP Briefs

During the week of November 1 to 8, officers of the Minden OPP Detachment investigated 51 general occurrences and 15 traffic accidents with three people injured.

Arrest

A 23-year-old Haliburton man was arrested following a disturbance at the Rockcliffe Tavern at 1 a.m. on November 6. Minden OPP report that Dusty Upton was unlawfully at large from the Guelph Reformatory after failing to return from a temporary absence pass.

While going to the cruiser, Upton escaped from the police, and was later recaptured and held in custody.

On November 6, Upton appeared in Lindsay

Provincial Court where he pleaded guilty to escaping custody and was sentenced to four months in jail. He has been transferred back to Guelph where he will face the charge of being unlawfully at large.

Truck totalled

Two Minden men sustained injuries when an Ontario Hydro truck was involved in a single-vehicle accident on Kennis Lake Road on the afternoon of November 3.

Larry Anderson and Bradley Hamilton were taken to the Haliburton Hospital after the truck, in which they were passengers, rolled over at about 5 p.m. nine miles up County Road 7. Police report there were five people in the truck driven by Regean Desjardins of Bancroft.

Damage is estimated at $15,000 to the truck.

Dumps study

Stanhope Council members and Clerk Gerald Bain will be meeting this week to prepare an application for Ministry of Environment funding to conduct a study into potential landfill sites in the township.

Planning for new landfill sites "is something we should be looking at before too long," said Reeve Harry Davis at last Wednesday's meeting. The present sites have limited life spans, and developing a new site is a very lengthy process.

Funding for a study to identify possible locations for new sites is eligible for a 50 per cent grant from the ministry. The deadline for funding applications is November 30.

THE RENT REVIEW GUIDELINE FOR 1988 IS 4.7 PER CENT

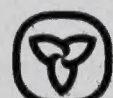

The rent review guideline for next year has been calculated at 4.7 per cent. This is the amount by which a landlord can increase the maximum rent for a unit during 1988 without approval from the Ministry of Housing. The rent for a unit can be increased only once in a 12-month period.

The 4.7 per cent guideline applies to all private rental units in the province for rent increases that take effect from January 1, 1988 to December 31, 1988.

The 1987 guideline of 5.2 per cent continues to apply to rent increases which take effect on or before December 31, 1987.

It is illegal for a landlord to increase the maximum rent above the guideline without applying to the Ministry of Housing for rent review to justify the increase. In cases where a landlord does apply for an increase above the guideline, tenants can examine the application and make their own submissions before a decision is reached.

For more information about the 1988 guideline, please contact your local rent review office listed in the Government of Ontario blue pages of your phone book under the Ministry of Housing. If long distance, ask the operator for Zenith 96000.

Kulas joins hospital board

Bill Kulas, manager of the Minden Valu-mart and columnist with The Times, has accepted the position of Minden representative on the St. Joseph's Hospital Board.

Kulas will be replacing former board member Helen Johnson on the board which oversees operations of St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough, the Haliburton Hospital and the Minden Hospital. He will also be serving on the board's property committee, which is presently involved in the expansion project at the Haliburton Hospital.

Hospital administrator Leo Doiron said Kulas was selected for this role because of his keen interest in the community and in the hospital. Along with 26 other board members Kulas will be required to attend the monthly board meetings as well as the property committee meetings.

Because of this new commitment, along with his other community involvements, Kulas will no longer be writing his column, "What Do You Think About", for The Times. His final column appears in next week's paper.

Kulas' appointment to the board comes at a very active time for the hospitals. Ministry approval of the plans for the Haliburton Hospital is anticipated in the near future, and Doiron said the board is gearing up for a drive to have an addition for a rehabilitation centre built at St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough.

Doiron also notes that the hospital is anticipating a record-high deficit this year. He said the hospital has faced considerable increases in its surgical volumes and increased costs for medical supplies that will result in a $685,000 operating deficit for the year.

The board will be appealing the budget allocation, and Doiron is optimistic the ministry will increase its allocation to cover the increased costs.

One of Kinmount's oldest houses was destroyed by an early-evening fire on Saturday, November 7. Firefighters from Kinmount, Burnt River, Galway and Norland fire departments helped fight the blaze, which erupted after 5 p.m. The home was owned by Herbert Fischer and was occupied by his granddaughter Jacqueline and her husband Murray Coburn who were out of town at the time of the fire.

Not just 'make work'

Stanhope Township has agreed to sponsor a work project at the Leslie Frost Centre that could provide 10 weeks of employment for four workers.

Frank Bes, a forestry specialist with the Frost Centre, approached council with the proposal at Wednesday's meeting. He said there are about 40 hectares of hardwood forest that need improvement at the centre and he hopes to have the work completed under Section 38 of the UIC Act. He said it is more than a "make-work project." The work needs to be done and the centre can not afford to do it on its budget, he said.

Although the township will be sponsoring the project, its involvement is minimal. The pay for the four workers will be provided through unemployment insurance and "topped up" by the ministry.

The project will employ two labourers and two forestry graduates with wages ranging from $318 to over $400 per week.

Celebrate

Time is fast running out for Haliburton County residents to nominate those who have contributed to sports in communities for Celebration 88 Awards.

In conjunction with the torch relay for the Winter Olympics in Calgary, the federal government has initiated an awards program to honour those who have contributed to the development of sports in their communities. Those to be honoured with the awards are athletes, volunteers, coaches, officials and sponsors.

This is a unique opportunity to recognize individuals who have demonstrated "characteristics which are in keeping with the admirable ideals of the Olympic spirit."

Six awards are available to each municipality in the county, and committees have been set up to select those who will receive awards. However, the committee's choice is limited to those who have been nominated by the public.

November 25 is the deadline for nominations. That is now only nine days away.

If you know someone who is deserving of this recognition, take the time to sit down and fill in a brief nomination form. The information that should be included is the nominee's name, phone number and address, a brief outline on why this person deserves the award, and your own name and address.

All nominations can be left at the County Office in Minden or at MP Bill Scott's office on King Street in Lindsay.

Let's take advantage of this opportunity to recognize those who have given unselfishly to our many sports programs.

The final harvest.

Re: "Trade to benefit consumers" by Bill Scott M.P. in The Times November 2, 1987.

Mr. Scott is to be commended for trying to shed some light on a subject (The Free Trade Agreement) which has been mired in suspicion, confusing rhetoric and obfuscation.

However Mr. Scott's glowing picture re. the benefits to the Canadian consumer of FTA - greater volume of goods from the USA, better quality at lower cost due to the abolition of tariffs needs a little more examination.

Mr. Scott is correct in stating that cross border travellers will enjoy savings by shopping in the USA.

The consequent results to the merchandising community in Canada will be unfavourable, but a further negative possibility lies in the consumer savings due to abolition of tariffs.

Mr. Scott quotes a figure of 2.1 billion dollars no longer collected in tariffs had FTA been in effect last year.

Canadians should look at this figure and reflect on the fact that the billions no longer collected under FTA

Acid rain: 'AIDS of trees'

by Arthur Black

*I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.*

Amazing. The poet Joyce Kilmer wrote those lines without even laying eyes on the big old maple out my back door. Now there is a tree that's more beautiful than half a dozen poems, the entire Top Ten Hit Parade and a couple of three-act plays put together.

Acer Saccharum it's known as, among botanists. To us less learned folks it's a plain old sugar maple and it is as I say, a beauty. Thirty feet high. A good three feet around the trunk. Festooned with bird houses in the summer (some man-made, others freelance) and bedecked with bird feeders and suet bags in the winter, my old maple is a regular Salvation Army hostel for the swarms of jays, finches, chickadees and grosbeaks that flap by here every year en route to their summer and winter hangouts.

Works for me too, that maple. Holds up one end of my hammock for a couple of months each summer. I've spent more than one muggy afternoon under that tree, rocking gently and gazing at the hypnotically shifting patterns on the undersides of the maple leaves above, blocking out the sun. There may be more pleasant ways to while away a blistering hot July afternoon, but I don't know of them.

Yessir, it's a wonderful old tree, my maple.

A pity that it's dying.

Nothing to do with age or fungus diseases or hemorrhage from the dinky little hook that holds up my hammock. My maple is dying from the same thing that your maple's dying from. The same thing that's killing all our maples.

Acid rain.

Or so they tell me. To tell the truth, my maple looks pretty much the way it did last year and the year before. It turns colour a little earlier and sheds its leaves a little faster, but other than that it's pretty much the same.

But the experts tell me it's dying and you know what - I believe them. Because I've never heard biologists talk the way they walk about the threat of acid rain. Usually, scientists talk and write in academic-ese - language that is dispassionate, unemotional and, well, boring, actually. But the menace of acid rain is provoking some specialists to vocabulary that's downright frightening.

"A catastrophe in the making" warns a McGill University professor.

"We're on our way to disaster" says an Ontario botanist.

How serious is acid rain? Tom Hutchinson of the Institute of Environmental Studies has a chillingly blunt answer to that: "It is" he says "the AIDS of trees." It's not as if we haven't been warned. Acid rain has decimated the forests of several European countries, particularly West Germany. Remember the Black Forest? Chances are in a few more years that's what we'll all have to do - remember it. Its famous evergreens have been among the hardest hit.

In North America though, it's maple trees - so far, anyway. Sugar maples have been particularly susceptible. Quebec's once lucrative sugar maple industry is in a shambles. Why? Because according to a McGill University study, 80 per cent - 80 per cent - of the province's maple trees are dead or dying. Economic losses to Quebec so far: $110 million and climbing.

Can we turn it around? Hard to say. Trees don't respond to a couple of aspirin and a warm poultice. Foresters know that once you've interrupted a forest's cycle, the interruption can last for decades. There's a talk of slow release organic fertilizers and promising bone meal treatments, but everyone knows what really has to be done. We have to stop spewing our crap into the air.

And that's not likely to happen.

Not while you have a U.S. President who can say - as Regan said when he was governor of California: "Seen one redwood, you've seen 'em all."

Not when you have a provincial Ministry of Natural Resources which can publish a booklet listing all the possible causes of maple tree "dieback" - everything from insects to fungus to viruses ... but never once mentioning the MNR "F" words.

Air pollution.

All I know is, somebody better act soon. Unless we want to hear our kids standing up in school assembly singing revised lyrics to our semi-national anthem:

"The Maple Leaf... For A Little While"

What do you think about...

Deer hunters?

by Bill Kulas

During this past hunting season our area has made the news on several radio and television stations for hunting associated deaths and mishaps. Who was it who said that no news is good news?

What occurred this year is indeed unfortunate, especially for those families directly affected. Accidents can happen and do happen, even to the best or most experienced hunter, but can they be avoided or at least minimized?

Hunter safety courses have certainly help reduce mishaps over the years. Having been raised in the North, I was exposed to the bush and hunting at a very early age. My father, having been an avid outdoorsman and prospector proved to be a good teacher. When it came to hunting and handling a firearm, respect for the gun came first. You have to learn to treat and handle a gun as if it were loaded at all times. I was out deer hunting these past two weeks with some companions and was disturbed at what I saw. Hunters wearing camouflage clothing, hunters wearing dark clothing with green vests, rather than the brightly coloured red or orange hunting attire what the majority of hunters wear. Unfortunately wearing the orange or red is not mandatory. Some hunters are putting themselves into a situation where they are going to be the hunted rather than the hunter. Deer rely much more on sound and smell than on sight, therefore there is no place for Rambo-dressed characters in the woods.

Another fact that is alarming to many hunters is that there seems to be areas where there are far too many hunters in an area. When you get an area, let's say six or eight miles square that has 15 or 20 hunters, maybe even more, using high powered rifles that have an effective killing range of up to a mile, then the chances of having an accident is greatly increased. While standing on a watch last week, I noticed a group of hunters walking up a trail toward me. Although they noticed me, rather than walk through the area, one of the hunters positioned himself some 200 yards away on his own watch, directly in my line of fire. Now if I hadn't seen that hunter stop and position himself where he did and let's say that I had begun shooting at a deer, then that fella could easily have been a casualty, because he knowingly situated himself in a precarious position. Possibly the Ministry of Natural Resources should look at restricting the number of hunters in certain areas, much along the same lines as the zoning in the case of the moose hunt. Also some type of law enforcing an approved standard for hunting attire would be beneficial. What do you think?

The question now arises as to how this sum will be made up - will it be from other taxation or from reducing social programs.

I'm sure that Mr. Scott would be willing to pass this information on to us, providing the promoters of this version of FTA can come up with a palatable solution.

County population rising by Bill Scott, M.P.

I have just received a report from Statistics Canada entitled 1986 Census of Canada, Federal Electoral District Data Tabulations. It gives selected characteristics found in Victoria - Haliburton on the 1986 Census. I am told a more detailed report will be available some time in 1988.

The recorded population in Victoria - Haliburton was 97,555, a 9.3% increase from 1981. This is more than double the 4.0 per cent increase in the national figure and almost double the 5.5 per cent increase in the Province of Ontario. This population is composed of 48,425 men and 49,130 women, 52,470 of these are married.

When grouped according to ages, the statistics show that the largest single group, 20,280 are 0 - 14 years old. The next largest group of 16,475 are over 65. Next are 25 - 34 year olds, 14,265; 15 - 24 year olds, 13,145; 35 - 44 year olds, 12,700; 55 - 64 year olds 11,520. The smallest age group was 45 - 54 years old.

Two person families were in the majority at 13,510 with the average number of persons per family being 3.0 and the average number of children per family being

1.1. Those figures are virtually unchanged from 1981 when the average number of persons per family was 3.1 and the average number of children per family was also 1.1.

Housing statistics stated that there were 35,435 occupied private dwellings. Of these 28,695 were owned, 6,695 were rented and 45 were on revenues. There were 30,755 single-detached houses, 625 apartments of five or more stories, 170 moveable dwellings and 3,885 dwellings which are either semi-detached, attached, rowhouses or apartments of less than five stories.

Also included is a table listing the population by Selected Mother Tongue. These are the results quoted: English 91,755; French 615; Ojibway 40; Italian 185; Romanian 5; Portuguese 50; Spanish 30; German 1,330; Yiddish 5; Dutch 640; Flemish 15; Swedish 30; Danish 85; Norwegian 10; Gaelic Languages 15; Ukrainian 265; Russian 50; Macedonian 10; Czech 50; Slovak 30; Polish 145; Latvian 90; Lithuanian 30; Finnish 120; Estonian 145; Hungarian 175; Greek 95; Armenian 5; Arabic 5; Hindi 10; Punjabi 10; Urdu 5; Japanese 10; Korean 10; Chinese 90; Vietnamese 15; Tagalog 5; Other languages 180; More than one language 1,200.

As further material from Census 86 is made available, I will pass it on through my weekly Reports From Parliament. Anyone wishing more information about the range of census products available can contact the Advisory Services of Statistics Canada. Their Ontario Regional Office is located at 10th Floor, Arthur Meighen Building, 25 St. Clair Ave. E., Toronto, Ontario, M4T 1M4. They have a toll free number of 1-800-268-1151.

Cannon in court

Former Minden contract- or Joe Cannon is to appear in Provincial Court again on November 18, when it is expected a trial date will be set to address a series of fraud and theft charges.

On November 4, the case was once again remanded for two weeks. Cannon and JMC Builders each face six charges of fraud and three charges of theft.

Education stressed in speech from the Throne

by John Eakins, M.P.P.

The upgrading of our educational system. That was the central theme of the recent Speech from the Throne address given by the Honourable Lincoln M. Alexander, the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario.

Earlier this month several residents of Victoria - Haliburton visited the legislature at Queen's Park to listen to the Speech from the Throne starting the first session of the Thirty-Third Parliament.

A throne speech is a document written by the government of the day, outlining the issues and concerns which will form the basis of the legislative agenda for the coming session.

In the recent speech, the government renewed its commitment to our educational system.

While throne speeches are designed to focus on general themes as opposed to details, a number of specific goals were outlined.

To quote the speech, "We will, in consultation with parents, teachers and school boards:

- establish new provincial benchmarks for literacy, languages, mathematics, sciences and social studies.

- develop more effective ways of measuring student achievement against these benchmarks.

- ensure that parents receive more detailed information on their children's progress."

Many other initiatives were also discussed in the throne speech. I was particularly pleased to see a continued commitment to assist our seniors and the physically challenged to live independently.

As the speech noted, "We recognize that for many individuals, such as seniors, the disabled and others in need of special services, quality health care is not enough to ensure they lead independent and productive lives."

"We are determined to provide a broad network of support that will allow them to reach their full potential, and contribute as much as possible according to their ability."

In conjunction with this concern, the throne speech sets out a clear strategy to address the issue of spiralling health care costs. In Ontario, you and I contribute more than $11 billion in government funds to support health care programs and facilities. This (more on page 22)

It looks like everyone wants to murder Marsha as the plot unfolds in the Highlands Little Theatre's hilarious production of "Let's Murder Marsha". All proceeds from this play go to the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund.

New play is a killer

If you enjoy a good murder mystery but can't stand to see people die, the Highlands Little Theatre has just the play for you.

The Little Theatre's production of "Let's Murder Marsha," a new comedy written by Monk Ferris, has all the ingredients of a great murder play. All, that is, except the actual death.

Set in a posh Manhattan apartment, Marsha Gilmore's (Ann Creelman) overactive imagination leads her to believe that her husband (Glen Carter) and his suspected 'other woman' (Elaine Schmid) are plotting an attempt on her life.

Of course, as is soon revealed to the audience, murder is the furthest thing from Tobias Gilmore's mind. However, Marsha is convinced, and in an effort to strike the first blow, she concocts a scheme to poison Tobias with some help from her friendly druggist Virgil Baxter (Michael Gilhooly).

What follows is a hilarious episode of confusion as everyone and no one gets a taste of the poison.

Also appearing in this delightful play, which is directed by Dale McConnell, are Maureen O'Hara as the Gilmore's maid, Bianca, and Doug Brohm as the policeman, ready to arrest anyone and everyone.

"Let's Murder Marsha" opens at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School this Thursday at 8 p.m. with performances following on Friday and Saturday evenings. All proceeds from admissions will go to the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund.

Many items are addressed

The following are items from the November 12 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships Council:

Access road

As long as the Woodcock access road does not extend beyond the 66-foot-wide boundaries, Arthur Turner told council he does not object to the opening of the right of way.

Turner was at Thursday's meeting to express his concerns that the road will stray outside the 66-foot allowance. However, council assured him that the agreement with the developer does not allow for this.

Sewage

Provided that ministry approval is granted, Alex Kernohan will be allowed to use a section of the township pit on Bobcaygeon Road as a inter storage site for sewage from area septic systems.

Council also gave its approval for summer spreading on property at Lot 23, Concession A in Minden Township. This approval is also conditional on ministry approval.

No motors

In response to a petition from residents of Mirror Lake near Carnarvon, council will be looking into the possibility of requesting the Ministry of Natural Resources to ban the use of boat motors on the lake.

Addressing council, Mrs. Max McKay said the residents of the tiny lake are afraid that motorized boats will cause pollution and erosion of the banks.

While she said only canoes and row boats are presently used on the lake, there is some concern that a marina may start using the lake to test motors and demonstrate boats. McKay said a road has been cleared from the boat storage

Kennel call

The following animal was found recently in Lutterworth Township and is now available for adoption.

- Lhasa Apso cross breed, dark grey, white chest, young male.

facility next to Carnarvon Lumber and a dock has been built. She said that if motor boats are allowed on the lake, residents may have to come back to council for an alternative water supply.

The ministry has the authority to ban motors, but this can only be done on recommendation from the township, council was told. Acting Reeve Bern Berry told McKay that council will be what course of action should be taken to preserve the lake.

Minden visit

In May and June of 1989, up to 100 veterans will be revisiting their former battle grounds from the Second World War, and Minden, Germany will be among the stops, council was told.

Tom Jackson, from the Port Credit Legion, outlined the plans for the visit to council, and asked if the township wished to participate in any way.

Acting Reeve Bern Berry noted that there will be a new council at that time, and said they may wish to send some greetings and souvenirs. He also suggested that Jackson should contact the local legion to see if anyone is interested in participating in the trip.

Emergency plan

After numerous minor changes were suggested to the joint emergency plan at Thursday's meeting, Deputy Reeve Bern Berry will be meeting with Lutterworth Township Deputy Reeve Carol Puffer in hopes of having the plan finalized by the year end.

Close to 30 minor alternatives to the plan, which was drafted mainly by Lutterworth Council, were recommended at Thursday's meeting. When this was completed, Berry said the revisions have to come to an end at some point. He will meet with Puffer to discuss the suggested revisions they will bring the final version back to their councils for approval.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on precipitation is based on information gathered at the Ministry of Environment Acid Rain Testing Station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

There were 5 precipitation events during the period November 1 - 7:

- November 2, 4 mm rain, pH 4.1 from Kentucky, Indiana, South Michigan and southern Ontario.

November 3, 3 mm rain, pH 4.2 from Illinois, Michigan and Lake Huron.

November 4, 4 mm rain, pH 4.4 from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Lake Huron.

November 5, 2 mm mixed rain and snow, pH 4.7 from northern Ontario.

November 6, 2 mm mixed rain and snow, pH 5.1 from north western Ontario, Lake Superior and Lake Huron.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Great play, poor results for Redmen

It took a full two periods of play before the HHSS Redmen hockey team got its act together as they faced off against Campbellford last Tuesday afternoon. But, by that time, it was too late.

Aggressive defensive play by Campbellford and the small ice surface confounded the Redmen's ability to connect with their passes. At the same time, though, Campbellford found plenty of skating room in the early periods with the Redmen sacrificing players to the penalty box. Campbellford scored three times in the first period while the Redmen warmed the bench of the penalty box.

Despite the disappointing result, the Redmen showed a lot of promise in the final period of play. Although it was too late to come back from the early deficit, they clearly outplayed their opponents throughout the final 20 minutes.

The bleachers were almost filled with cheering fans as the Redmen took to the ice for their first home game of the 17-game schedule. The team had already suffered a narrow 6-5 loss on the road to Kenner Collegiate.

Campbellford opened the scoring at the 10-minute mark of the first period with a man advantage. Two minutes later, again with a man advantage, Campbellford's Jeff Pearson beat goaltender Scott Burk with a perfectly-placed shot that caught the top right-hand corner.

Campbellford upped their lead to three when a scramble in front of the Redmen net ended with the puck in the crease. The Redmen had two men in the box when this goal was scored.

The Redmen finally found the mark late in the first period, as they shovelled a rebound into the Campbellford net. However, the linesman had lost sight of the loose puck and blew the play dead before it went into the net. The goal was disallowed.

The Redmen clamped down on their penalty time in the second period and managed to hold their opponents off for the first 12 minutes. However, Campbellford upped their lead to 5-0 with two consecutive goals.

Haliburton's Jaro Cooper finally put the Redmen on the scoreboard late in the period as he accepted a beautiful pass in front of the net and chipped it into the open side.

The large crowd came back to life in the final frame as a much improved Redmen squad took control of the ice. They played a more patient brand of hockey, cutting off Campbellford's scoring chances and forcing them to make the mistakes.

Despite the improved play, Haliburton still had trouble putting the rubber into Campbellford's net. Finally, Ron Perrin, who had put in an outstanding performance throughout, found the mark.

Perrin let loose a lightning shot from outside the blue line that bounced off the mesh before Campbellford's goalie had time to react.

The Redmen are on the road again today for their third game of the season against a tough Lakefield squad. Their next home game is this Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. against St. Peter's.

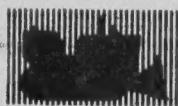

Redmen goaltender Scott Burke saw a lot of action last Tuesday during the team's second game of the season against Campbellford. Despite a strong showing in the third period, the Redmen could not overcome the five goal lead established by their opponents.

Three-way tie is restored in men's league

With the Rockcliffe and The Times each suffering their first losses in the Minden Men's Recreational Hockey League last Monday, the three-way tie for first place has been restored.

With records of three wins and one loss, the lead is shared with Halls, which lost its first game a week earlier by default to The Times.

The main upset of last Monday night's play at the Minden arena came when Hartwick beat The Times 6-1. This was the first win of the season for Hartwick and the first loss for The Times.

Bart Hilhorst and Dave Hartwick paved the way for Hartwick's first win with two goals each. Rick Salmon and Royce Miller each added one to the tally.

Sid MacKeigan scored the lone goal for The Times in the third period.

Halls 7, Rockcliffe 4

The 7-4 win by Halls over the Rockcliffe in the final game of the night was another mild upset. Before the game, Halls was sporting a record of two wins and a loss, while the Rockcliffe had three wins.

Anderson led the score for Halls with three, while Rick Lowes, Dave Rogers, Ron Finlay and Tim George each added one.

Scoring for the Rockcliffe were Al Cunningham (2), John McGivern and Harold Cowen.

Vasey 12, Home 10

Outstanding efforts by Dean Hewitt, Norm Barry and Kevin Hamilton produced a narrow 12-10 win for Vasey over Home Hardware in the first game of the night.

Hewitt scored five goals, while Hamilton scored four and Barry earned a hat-trick to compile the win.

Scott Hamilton led the way for Home Hardware with four goals. Carl Northey scored three for Home, while singles were notched by Paul Walker, Gary Nelson and Doug Schell.

The league heads into the fifth week of the season tonight at the Minden arena. At 7 p.m. Halls will meet Home Hardware. At 8:30 p.m. the Rockcliffe takes on The Times, and at 10 p.m. Hartwick and Vasey take to the ice.

Three pros teach CanSkate

The Minden Skating Club is off to another good year with a higher number of children in the CanSkate and the regular Figure Skating programs.

This year they have three pros teaching, Jane Symons, David Hollows and Diane Garbutt.

Something new has been added this year with the Minden and Haliburton Clubs forming a Precision Team. This is proving to be most entertaining and hopefully these skaters will be involved in some competitions in the new year.

We are having a contest on naming the Precision Team. Anyone having any suggestions write them down and give to Linda Schrader.

Also don't forget your labels from the Campbell products, Leitha Greston at Leitha's Sweets and Treats will look after these for you.

Skaters are busy submitted

Several Minden skaters have been busy practicing since September. Starting at fall school helps skaters prepare for early season tests and competitions.

On October 17 Marita Schrader passed her Dutch Waltz - the first dance, and Sara Lee Henderson passed her Blues dance leaving her just one more dance to complete the Senior Silver Dances.

Cori Barkwell has been busy competing in two competitions. On October 25 Cori travelled to Huntsville to compete in the SkokieSkate competition and finished 9th. On November 7 Cori was off to Cobourg to compete in Cobourg Skate where she placed 3rd in her flight and 6th in the finals. Congratulations to you girls.

HONDA SNOWTHROWERS

BUY OUR SNOWTHROWER AND WE'LL BUY YOUR SHOVEL FOR $50.00*

This year, we'd like to take the load off your back and a shovel off your hands. If you bring your old snow shovel, or any old shovel at all, in to us we'll give you $50.00 off when you buy any Honda snowthrower.

There are three Honda models to choose from. From 3.5 to 8 horsepower.

Every Honda snowthrower has a reliable four-stroke engine so there's no messy gas and oil mixing. They can clear depths of up to a foot and a half depending on the model. And the two larger models have dual-track drive and three forward speeds, plus reverse, to really plough through drifts.

So this winter, get the load off your back. Start throwing snow our way and we'll throw $50.00 your way. If you catch our drift.

Federation of Ontario Naturalists

It's owl season. Already a snowy owl has reached Leslie Street Spit. Their colour, the fact that they are diurnal, and their habit of perching on posts or rocks in open areas make these owls highly visible. But migratory owls like the tiny saw-whet owl and the long-eared owl are much more difficult to find. The saw-whet chooses a day-time perch in tangles and thickets. Recently, only the agitation of a flock of golden-crowned kinglets gave away the presence of a saw-whet owl perched in the middle of a hawthorn thicket, clutching a headless vole.

Blue jays and crows delight in tormenting perching long-eared and great horned owls. If you hear a flock of crows raising a rumpus, follow the noise and you're likely to find a perching long-eared owl hugging the trunk of a large conifer.

Since owls are usually difficult to see, they exercise the fascination of the unknown. Mainly nocturnal or at least crepuscular in habit, their silent flight and their rich haunting calls give them an aura of mystery.

Superstitious attachment to owls goes back to ancient times. In Greek mythology, Pallas Athena, goddess of war and wisdom was attended by an owl.

Their large flattened heads, large eyes and facial discs give owls a disturbingly human appearance. Added to this is their uncanny ability to rotate the head with great speed in what appears to be a full circle. Actually, because their eyes are fixed in their sockets, owls must turn their heads in order to scan. To facilitate this the owl has more neck vertebrae and neck musculature than other birds.

Owls like the snowy owl do not migrate. But some winters northern owls move south of their normal range in search of food. These owls, unused to humans, appear tame and will permit close approach by humans. Their efficiency as predators has given owls little to fear except from larger predators and, unfortunately, man. Despite its reputation for wisdom, an owl seldom makes the connection between human presence and danger. Because owls rest for long periods on a favourite perch they are sitting targets for harassment. Every winter many owls are killed or crippled by gunshots.

Owls deserve better from human beings. They are the world's most efficient mousetrap. Since owls regurgitate the parts of the prey they cannot digest, there is ample evidence in the form of balls of fur and bones under any owl perch of its voracious appetite for rodents. A great horned owl at the Humber Arboretum lived very well last winter on the large population of squirrels.

If you are fortunate enough to encounter an owl this winter, enjoy it but keep your distance. Use your binoculars and your common sense. Remember that winter is a difficult time for all wildlife and the less disturbance to which they are subjected the better. Part of enjoying nature is learning to treat it with respect.

President of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 129, Joan Irish, places a wreath at the Haliburton Memorial to the war dead during Remembrance Day services Wednesday. She is accompanied by Sergeant at Arms Irv Chambers. Legion members, veterans, friends, relatives and members of the general public gathered for the ceremony held in memory of those who lost their lives in the service of their country.

Creating the best trails a challenge for Sled Dog Derby

The Minden Sled Dog Derby, which will be held this year on Saturday, January 9th and Sunday, January 10th, is well known among dog-racing enthusiasts for several outstanding features. A substantial purse, a challenging course, thorough organization, and Haliburton Highlands hospitality drew nearly 80 teams in 1987, making this the largest sled-dog race in Ontario.

Through the sponsorship of Martin Feed Mills of Elmira, Ontario, race organizers are able this year to offer a purse of $10,000 which will be divided among the top 15 finishers in both the eight-dog and four-dog categories. The winner of each race will receive $2,000 and $1,000 respectively.

The course for the Minden Sled Dog Derby has been carefully designed to meet the standards of a world-class event. Among other characteristics, it is renowned for one particularly steep hill that tests the mettle of dogs and drivers alike.

When a group of local racers decided four years ago to put on a sled-dog derby in Minden, creation of an outstanding course was one of their first tasks. But what constitutes the ideal depends on whom you talk to. Should it be a loop trail which goes around in a large circle (four miles for the four-dog race and eight miles for the eight-dog) so that there is no head-on passing for the teams? Or should it be an out-and-back course with a turn-around at the half-way point so that the dogs know when they're going home and run all the faster?

A minimum of open country is desirable; the dogs like running through the bush better, with the trees close to them on either side, and the snow isn't as likely to blow away. But it mustn't be too narrow, particularly if there is to be head-on passing. Curves and corners should be wide and gradual, with no nasty surprises such as a sharp turn at the bottom of a hill. Rolling hills are preferable to steep ones; but a substantial climb can present an exciting challenge, providing the trail is wide enough.

Latitude also plays a part. In the far north, races such as the Yukon Quest are run on frozen rivers which have been winter highways since time began. But further south, a lake or river course is too unpredictable; if a warm spell turns the ice to slush, the drivers can't put their feet down to control the sled and, even worse, the dogs are more likely to get hurt. Indeed, safety of the dogs is the cardinal rule in all these decisions.

But God is the ultimate designer of any racing course and the trail boss must work with the terrain at hand.

Minden Trail Boss Steve Lougheed was handed his first challenge when the organizing committee agreed that the Minden Sled Dog Derby should start and finish on Main Street so that the largest number of spectators could enjoy the event. "I wanted to get the trail off the roads and into the woods as quickly as possible," he said, "and keep the road crossings to a minimum." Using his own experience as a musher (he is 1987 Ontario Champion), his knowledge of the area gained through years as a surveyor, and with the aid of aerial maps, Lougheed, along with fellow musher Gary Pringle, was able to find a route that met all the necessary criteria.

"About three-quarters of the trail is through bush along an unused road allowance. That meant the least amount of aggravation for us in terms of negotiating with land-owners and gives the dogs the width they need for head-on passing without actually being out in a field. Where they do have to climb that one major hill, it widens out to about 30 feet."

Mushers can test the suitability of a new course before it is actually used in a race. "If you tie a 20-foot rope onto the back of your snowmobile," Pringle said, "and attach a tire to the other end, then drive the snowmobile over the course at 20 miles an hour without touching the brake, what happens to the tire as it bounces around is what's going to happen to the driver hanging onto the sled behind his or her team."

Obviously Lougheed and Pringle did their job well. The Minden course is popular with the drivers. Even "That Hill" is becoming a favourite talking point and some mushers find it has its virtues. The 1987 winner of the eight-dog race, Terri Killam, considers this derby a good training race. "It gets the dogs in shape for the rest of the season," she said after last year's victory. "It's one of the hardest races I've been in. Those hills really test a team. If you can make it up those hills, you can do practically anything."

HOMETOWN CHRISTMAS '87

a great place ... to live, to grow, to shop

With the Christmas season just around the corner, you are no doubt preparing a shopping list. This year, visit local shops and stores first. Local businesses are an important part of your community. They provide services year 'round, are there when you need them and have a wide selection of merchandise. Moreover, local businesses provide employment opportunities, contribute to the welfare of the community and take an active interest in the growth and future of your hometown.

Hagerman steps aside for new Chamber president

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce held its annual meeting on Wednesday, October 28 at the PineStone Inn. The following are the remarks made by outgoing chamber president Shawn Hagerman at the meeting.

I would like to share with you a favourite quote of mine. It is from Shakespeare and is a conversation between Horatio and his good friend Hamlet. "But this is wondrous strange." "and therefore as a stranger give it welcome. There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in your philosophy."

What I have to say tonight concerns not so much a pep rally talk that you can be anything you want to be, but rather a brief account of my personal philosophy and my interpretation of the philosophy of this Chamber. I have always believed the recipe for a good speech should include a little shortening, so do bear with me. I will try to be brief.

Tonight is my last official function as Chamber president. After years, I will be stepping down as an active Board Member. I have always felt it is best to contribute everything you can to the project at hand and then clear the way so that new ideas and new goals can emerge. It was seven years ago this October that Bob Stinson mentioned in a casual conversation that maybe I would like to join the Chamber. They had an Annual Meeting coming up. Maybe I would like to run for the Board. I remember asking him what does the board do. He said, "Oh, not much, they meet once a month, no big deal." He said it might be kind of fun. Well, Bob was right. They do meet once a month.

At the first Board meeting I was given a copy of our constitution. It began thus: "The object of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce shall be to improve trade and commerce and the economic, civic and social welfare of the County of Haliburton." In the course of these seven years, I have seen the Chamber Office be torn down and replaced, everyone on the Board except me has changed, repeated and complete changes of our staff, businesses have started and some unfortunately closed, yet throughout it all the Chamber has remained steadfast in its goal to improve the economic, civic, and social welfare of this County of Haliburton.

The Chamber has been, ever since my first Board meeting, an exciting and, yes, sometimes fun place to be. The Chamber is the focal point for the economic, political, and social issues of our County. At our Board meetings such forces meet, sometimes collide, but in the end merge and help this County grow. Yet each group remain true to their goals. I used to humorously remark in my first winter as president, that the major ingredient of being a Chamber president is the ability to withstand snowmobile tracks up your back and cross-country ski trails down your front. Yet this region is far better served as a result of these and all the other hard-working groups and associations that form the mosaic of Haliburton County.

To the in-coming President, John Mateer, and the new Board, I shall leave you with the opportunity to discover new goals and the new directions. However, the truth in those directions should always acknowledge the Chamber's role of delicately balancing the needs of the various communities, from Cardiff to Dorset and back again, from the main street businesses to the resort and tourist operators. The Chamber works best when all these needs are respected and served.

To use the example of how difficult it is to find truth, let me pose the simple question, "What makes a car go?" From my point of view, it is the key that I must insert and turn. From the gas station operator's point of view, it is the gas he sells. From the point of view of the bank or Adam, my seven-year-old son, it is that plastic card that Daddy hands the guy through the car window. Each person is correct and each would argue correctly his point. Therefore, I have come to believe that real truth is the ability to understand the validity of another's point of view, whether it be on a Chamber level or a world level.

Many hold onto another truth as well. When we see something, then we will believe it. My time on the Chamber has taught me something different. I now know the opposite. That if we believe it first, then we will see it. I recently read excerpts from Martha Perkin's account of the first hospital, 60 years ago a few people gathered together in someone's home and believed that this County would have a hospital. Is that any different today with our own hospital committee? Is it different today with our new Highlander of the Year, Cliff Dawson and his Parklane committee? Believe it first, and then we will see it.

In particular I would like to share with you two examples among many of the incidents that have proven this point to me. Several years ago we needed desperately a new office. The one we had leaked, the sill was rotten, the floor heaved. The front door had to have an inch and a half cut from the bottom so we could open it. This was fine except it made a tremendous west wind draft in winter. The Management Meeting was at the home of the President, Ken Langdon. It was the same old story, no money, we can't do it, wait till next year. I have always said it's darn hard to read the writing on the wall when your back is up against it all the time. Finally, Ken Langdon cut through this foggy discussion with a clear statement. He felt we needed the building; he believed we

OPP RIDE in effect

The Ontario Provincial Police Christmas/New Year (RIDE) Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere driver check program began Sunday, November 15 on a province-wide basis.

The OPP RIDE program is a year-round anti-impaired driving campaign, stepped up for eight weeks during the peak of the festive season.

The two-week extension of the Christmas/New Year RIDE blitz, which ran for only six weeks prior to last year's program, has proved effective in screening twice as many motorists, and getting hundreds of impaired drivers and liquor law violators off the roads.

Impaired driving is still one of the most significant factors in approximately half of all fatal motor vehicle accidents investigated by the OPP.

"The OPP RIDE program is an essential means of reducing the risk of accidents and fatalities on our highways at any time of the year," said OPP Commissioner Archie Ferguson.

"The potential for danger has traditionally increased during the Christmas season, and for this reason the OPP will place a high priority on taking impaired drivers off the road," the Commissioner added.

In last year's Christmas/New Year RIDE blitz, OPP officers checked 357,167 drivers across the province and charged 1,193 people with alcohol-related Criminal Code of Canada driving offences. A total of 2,938 motorists were taken off the road with 12-hour licence suspensions and 1,595 people faced Liquor Licence Act charges for having alcohol easily accessible to the driver.

The OPP will operate a minimum of 40 RIDE check locations across Ontario every day, stopping more than 20,000 vehicles weekly.

All available manpower, aided by auxiliary members, will be committed to the RIDE program during the two-month Christmas/New Year blitz.

"The OPP RIDE checks may inconvenience the motoring public, but we will keep the delays down to a minimum," said Commissioner Ferguson. "Our main purpose is to save lives and prevent accidents and it is in everyone's best interest that we stop impaired driving," said Commissioner Ferguson.

A lot of folks who are active all summer tend to go into hibernation for the winter. Which is not the way to stay in shape.

After months of inactivity your body will tell you.

Fitness takes commitment year 'round.

So this winter, move outdoors with the action, or find an indoor sport you can warm up to. You've got what it takes to keep fit. Throughout the year. For information about sports and recreation facilities and programs contact Sports and Fitness Ontario, Queen's Park, should have it; and he would personally guarantee the loan if necessary to get it. Now, I don't know if his wife, Marion, knew that at the time, but it really doesn't matter. The discussion at that meeting changed that night. All of a sudden it became "Yes we can do it, and we will find a way." Today through the help of many, including the County, we all have an office for which we can be proud.

The second example, I would like to mention, is the fine work done this year by our Marketing Committee, chaired by John Mateer and Joyce Waffle. This year one of the major benefits for me is that I have come to know Joyce Waffle as a person of exceptional personal courage and wisdom. Last fall, the Chamber faced another difficult challenge with its deficit. Tough decisions had to be made, things we had always done may have to be sacrificed. The Marketing Committee was told the good news, that the sky is the limit, and then the bad news, that it had to start in the hole. Any marketing program had to self-liquidate. There were no funds to go to such things as the traditional Sportsman Show. The black clouds started to form, and the 'we can't's' started to rain down. Joyce Waffle came forward and paid for our booth at that show with her own money. She had the hope and belief that we as a County Chamber needed and should go to that event. We did go, and I am happy to say she got her money back. Participation was never better. That spirit multiplied and we went to more shows and promoted this County better than any other year. Thank you John and thank you Joyce and thank you all those who believed first and then saw it succeed.

I would also like to thank all those that I have served with on the Board, both past and present, for what you have taught me. Also I thank those on a County level for the unique partnership that our Chamber and our County have forged, especially the recent wardens Dalton MacDonald, Harry Davis, and Murray Fearrey whom I have come to know as far-sighted individuals.

I also think that everyone here should remember the staff of our Chamber, especially Shirley Rapson and her assistant Cindy Rodley for all the work they have accomplished and given up over the past year to be of service to everyone in this room.

Finally, I would like to thank my wife, Dianne, who has been there, especially on those days when I couldn't see the hand writing on the wall. I feel we must not lose sight of what is most important in our lives. We always tend to be working on the next five-year plan or our next 20-year mortgage to success, when in truth what happens today is all that really matters.

Several weeks ago I came home one night after one of those hand-writing-on-the-wall days, and Dianne showed me something she had found. I would, in conclusion like to share it with you. It was written some time ago by a woman called Nadine Stair. Nadine was 85 years old at the time she wrote these words:

"If I had my life to live over again I'd dare to make more mistakes next time. I'd relax and I would limber up. I would be sillier than I had been this trip. I would take fewer things seriously. I would take more chances. I would climb more mountains and swim more rivers. I would eat more ice cream and less beans. I would perhaps have more real troubles but I would have fewer imaginary ones. You see, I am one of those people who live sensibly and sanely. Hour after hour, day after day. Oh, I've had my moments and if I had it all to do over again, I'd have more of them. In fact, I'd try to have nothing else. Just moments, one after another, instead of being so many years ahead of myself each day. I've been one of those persons who never goes anywhere without a thermometer, a hot water bottle, a raincoat, and a parachute. If I had to do it again, I would travel lighter than I have. If I had my life to live over again, I'd start barefoot earlier in the spring and stay that way later in the fall. I would go to more dances. I would ride more merry-go-rounds. I would pick more daisies."

Obituary

George Milton Sears

George Milton Sears died on Wednesday, November 4 at Ross Memorial from a massive heart attack in his 73rd year. Born in Minden Township and youngest son of George and Etta (Hobden) Sears and they lived in our village. His parents owned and operated the Dominion Hotel until 1939.

Milt married Jeanne Murchis and they lived in various places until settling in Minden in 1946. Milt was well known as a jolly bartender, truck driver, municipal worker and happiest when he was working.

His hobbies were hunting and fishing and in his youth was a fishing guide.

He loved his family and raised them to be respectable people. Carolyn Leaman works at York Manor. Muriel Ewing is with Toronto Dominion Bank. Glen is with New Dominion. Islay is presently a student at Seneca, and Sandra Moth (a hair dresser) is home with her two boys.

Milt was at one time a member of the Home and School, Orange Lodge, Black Knights, Masonic Order, Rod & Gun Club, volunteer fireman and ambulance driver and Union Steward.

Though he has gone for a great rest, we all remember him with great love and respect.

Secrecy is best policy with cards

Credit card account numbers should be guarded as closely as cash, yet loose change often gets more respect.

"Never give your card number over the phone unless you initiate the call yourself and are familiar with the company on the other end of the line," says Dave Mitchell, head of Consumer Services for the Ontario Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations (MCCR). Swindlers don't need the card or your signature to place charges on your account, so be as secretive about the number as possible."

Mitchell also suggests consumers develop the habit of personally destroying all unwanted records of their account numbers, including carbons from sales slips.

Credit card fraud cost Canadian issuers of two major bank cards about $18.6 million in the 85/86 fiscal year. This figure from the Canadian Bankers' Association (CBA) does not include losses retailers and consumers had to cover themselves.

Most people realize the importance of keeping credit cards safe, yet the CBA reports 112,343 Mastercard and Visa cards were lost or stolen from October '85 to October '86.

"If loss rates are that high for cards we watch carefully, thieves must have lots of chances to get hold of account numbers that are written on receipts, contracts, and the backs of many cheques," says Mitchell.

"Think of the number the same way you do your personal ID number for a bank machine. They are both keys to the vault containing your money."

Credit card fraud takes many forms. It may be carried out by a thief off the street, an illegitimate or crooked company, a dishonest retail clerk or counterfeiters.

CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIPS OF ANSON, HINDON AND MINDEN

IN THE MATTER OF Sections 17(2) and 34(12) of the Planning Act, S.O. 1983, and

IN THE MATTER OF an application by J. KENTNER to amend the Zoning By-law of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden to permit re-zoning as required by the Ministry of Natural Resources, who has indicated that a portion of the five acre parcel of land should be rezoned to HZ - Hazard Land, prior to a severance being granted on Lot 27, Concession 9, in the Township of Minden.

NOTICE is hereby given that Council will hold a public meeting in the Municipal Council Chambers on Thursday, December 17, 1987, at 2:30 p.m. to consider an amendment to the Zoning By-law which would change the designation of the land shown in heavy outline on the attached plan from Zoning By-law 14-87, R-Residential to RU*1, Zoning By-law 86-26, RU-Rural to HZ-Hazard Land.

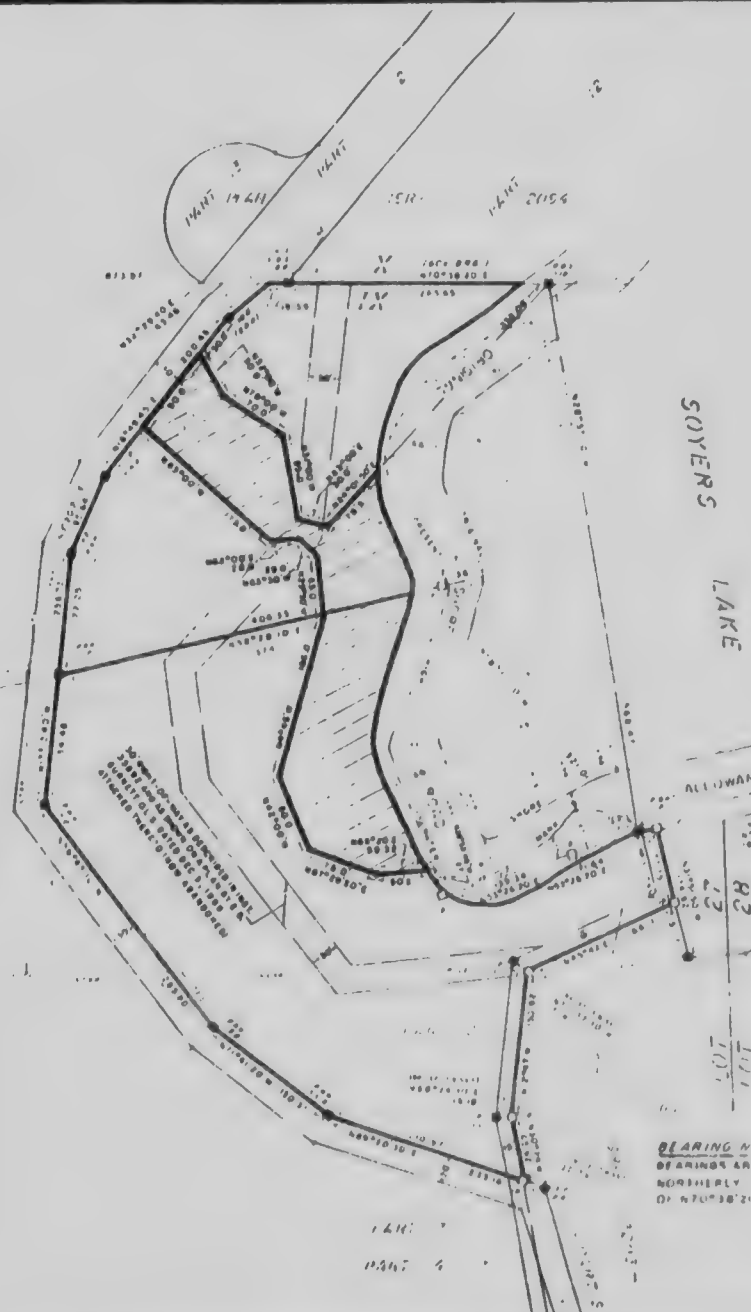

NOTICE is also given that at the same time Council will consider amendments to Zoning By-laws 14-87 and 86-26 which propose to rezone the land shown in heavy outline on the attached plan to Hazard Land Zone.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that before passing the said Zoning By-law amendments, Council shall then and there hear any person who attends the said meeting to make representation in respect of the proposed amendments.

FURTHER INFORMATION, if required, may be obtained from the Municipal Offices during regular office hours.

DATED at Minden this 13th day of November, 1987.

Scabies hard to eradicate

Dr. Stephen Dawson is a Medical practitioner serving the Minden community who writes a column on health matters for The Times.

As many of you are aware, there was a scabies outbreak at Hyland Crest recently.

There was, however, some diagnostic confusion at the time. Other physicians had diagnosed this as "flea bites" or contact dermatitis.

I therefore contacted Professor of Dermatology Dr. J. Nethercott at the Faculty of Medicine, University of Toronto, who agreed from my description of the rash and spread, that a scabies epidemic was the only realistic diagnosis. Scabies is a mite infestation, that spreads from person to person and is not uncommon in many Nursing Homes across Ontario.

It is a very difficult infestation to eradicate - not because effective treatment is unavailable, but because it's very difficult to convince everyone who has just one or two spots or is a close personal contact of another patient with known scabies to take the treatment.

For this reason, a discussion about scabies was held for all Hyland Crest staff and residents by pharmacist Paul Heffer and myself. Also present were Dr. Christopher Sims and Dr. Peter Watt from Minden Medical Centre.

After the discussion they examined residents and staff for an independent diagnosis. They confirmed that there were 36 documented cases of scabies.

Accordingly, a wide-scale treatment program was instituted using Kwellada (gamma benzene hexachloride) on all staff and residents and their families. Exceptions were children and pregnant women who used Eurax (crotamiton) instead, which although not quite as effective, is less toxic.

Over the next few weeks all residents were rechecked. The rash persists a while because of the hypersensitivity ("allergic") reaction to the dead mite in the skin and about one week later many rashes were still present, but improved. The following week Dr. Sims and Dr. Watt rechecked all these patients and to our relief, all patients had a successful response to treatment. Currently there is not one case of scabies still present.

However, it is important that we prevent this infestation from returning. Anyone who has an unexplained rash should consult their family physician. We will perform a monthly surveillance at Hyland Crest for re-emergence of scabies, which can potentially occur.

Also any patient admitted to Hyland Crest must be vigorously examined for scabies. There was a patient admitted to Hyland Crest last year who had the typical "7-year itch" that denotes scabies. She likely had the variant known as "Norwegian scabies" and was covered in the rash from head to toe with probably over a million mites and likely caused a "point source epidemic."

Lastly all of the people who followed our advice and took the treatment should be congratulated. The credit for the apparent eradication of scabies goes to them, with our appreciation.

Play your cards close to your chest

Armed with holograms, computer chips, and various other state-of-the-art security devices, lenders are making headway in the battle against credit card counterfeiters. This particular crime recently cost one major issuer $20 million worldwide in a single year. Losses were once double that level.

Counterfeiting involves the manufacture of phoney credit cards from scratch. By embossing the fake cards with the names and account numbers of real cardholders, the swindlers buy themselves time to make use of their creations. Phoney numbers would be quickly spotted by the finance company, whereas customers aren't alerted at least until the next statement date.

If they aren't pressing plastic to make their own cards, crooks may be applying for credit using other people's identities, ordering goods by phone or mail and charging them to someone else's account or collecting cash by processing unauthorized purchases through illegitimate businesses.

When making a purchase on a card, watch to make sure the clerk only makes one imprint, check the totals to ensure all amounts are filled in correctly and be sure you get your own card back.

Be particularly cautious with contracts such as car rental agreements which list home addresses, driver's licence numbers and other important personal information along with credit card data. Carbons or copies of these documents are gold-mines to crooks.

Sources of pirated information can be as hard to trace as a discarded receipt or as memorable as a recent phone call.

This year, Ontario consumers have been deluged with calls from American companies offering prizes or special deals, most involving vacations. Consumer ministry officials, the banking community and police have repeatedly warned the public not to reveal their credit card numbers to these callers. People have complained their accounts were debited for charges they did not approve or amounts in excess of those authorized. Most found they paid dearly for travel coupons of little, if any value.

U.S. authorities have prosecuted some of these operators, but, according to Mitchell, it would be "naive" to think the practice can be stamped out entirely.

"The trick is to be discriminating with all personal information, including account numbers," Mitchell says. "It's fine to order goods by phone on your card as long as you place the call and are confident the merchant is reputable. Don't get paranoid ... just cautious."

Any unauthorized credit card charges should be reported immediately to the issuer. Although signatures can't be checked for phone orders, the recipient of the goods can generally be traced through the retailer, say CBA representatives. If investigation shows a charge to be fraudulent, the company may absorb the cost itself or charge it back to the merchant.

For general information about credit, contact the Consumer Information Centre at 555 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M7A 2H6 - (416) 963-1111 or 1-800-268-1142 (toll free). From an 807 area code, call the 416 number collect. The TTY/TDD line for the hearing impaired is (416) 963-0808.

To address this issue, we will create a new health strategy which emphasises health promotion, prevention of disease, and the rising cost of medical technology.

I think these initiatives will go a long way to improving the education and health services available in this province.

CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIPS OF ANSON, HINDON AND MINDEN

IN THE MATTER OF Sections 17(2) and 34(12) of the Planning Act, S.O. 1983

and
IN THE MATTER OF an application by BETTY DIXON to amend the Zoning By-Law of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden to permit the creation of two residential lots each lot to have approximately 30 meters frontage on Soyers Lake being part of Lot 25, Concession 8, in the Township of Minden.

NOTICE is hereby given that Council will hold a public meeting in the Municipal Council Chambers on Thursday, December 17, 1987 at 2:30 p.m. to consider an amendment to the Zoning By-Law which would change the designation of the land shown in heavy outline on the attached plan from Zoning By-Law 14-67 Resort Commercial A, to R-Residential. Zoning By-Law 86-26 C4 Tourist Commercial to RLS-Residential Limited Service.

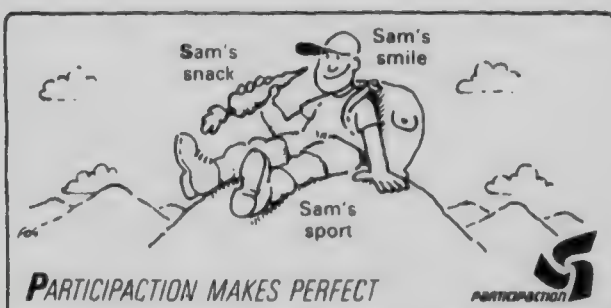

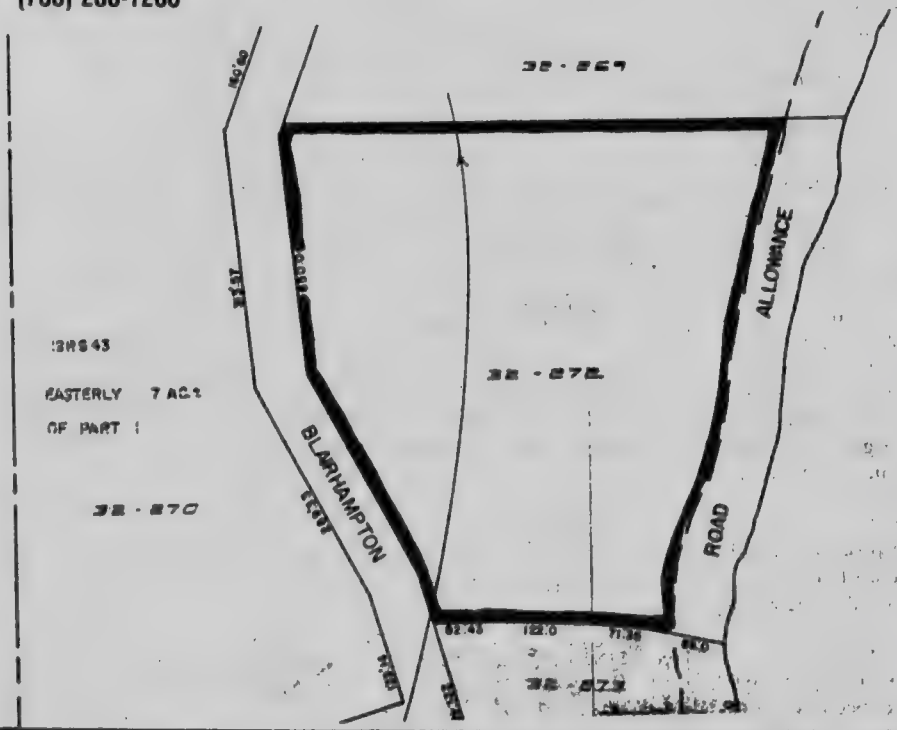

NOTICE is also given that at the same time Council will consider amendments to Zoning By-Laws 14-67 and 86-26 which propose to re-zone the land shown in heavy outline on the attached plan to a Residential zone category which will permit the creation of two Residential lots.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE, that before passing the said Zoning By-law amendments, Council shall then and there hear any person who attends the said meeting to make representation in respect of the proposed amendments.

FURTHER INFORMATION, if required, may be obtained from the Municipal Offices during regular office hours.

DATED at Minden this 13th day of November, 1987.

We are pleased to introduce a new feature to The Times Kid's Korner. Teachers in area schools are invited to submit for publication in this section student work which they consider to be of outstanding merit. We begin this feature with a poem by Vicky Beach, a student in the grade eight class of Mrs. Penney Obee at Archie Stouffer Elementary School, Minden.

Nature's End

by Vicky Beach

The whispering pleasant sound came from the gently swaying willows;
The fluffy spores from the dandelions made soft flying pillows;
The crimson, wild flowers brought beauty to my eye;
And sadness as I continue to think that my lovely view will die;

In the early, bygone ages the world seemed safe and clean;
But acid rain and pollution have come, to change all that's been;
These horrible, killing chemicals they will kill the plants and lines;
Of animals forever, forever, they will never again be alive.

Eventually, I know what will happen; and this sometimes scares me so;
Is that the humans will go with them; no more generations will grow,
No more clean, sparkling lakes or any fresh, cool and blown breeze;
And the pollution will win; it will win and all will be seized.

I really, really worry of what will happen to our world;
The willows won't whisper like they used to; the flowers will no longer unfurl;
I feel the urge to stop war and pollution; to stunt all that's grown;
But I can't do it alone; I can't do it alone, alone.

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Q: How did the man fall off a hundred foot ladder and not get hurt?

A: He fell off the first rung.

Q: What has teeth but never eats?

A: A comb.

Q: What can you serve but not eat?

A: A tennis ball.

Hello Readers: Beautiful beautiful snow, what we have here below! I believe winter must be here to stay; oh well, soon will be Christmas and next thing we know it's spring.

Happy birthday to four at Hyland Crest for November. Mary McKelvey, Margaret Sisson, Mable Buttery and Edith Welch.

Our Thursday tea was brought in by the folks from Harcourt Chapel. The Hughes family and others. It was a real treat for us at Hyland Crest.

We welcome another new resident, Lula Ferrill. We hope she will like it here.

Our chapel service Sunday evening was by Rev. J. J. J. and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson. I am sorry to report that next Sunday will be the last for Mr. and Mrs. Thompson with us for service. We sure will miss them. I speak for everyone when I say that.

Mrs. Buttery had a visit with Bert Cowan one day last week. Sorry to report Mamie Swan on the sick list. Maron Rose is away for a week or so on a trip with her son. Hazel Hoskins is back from the hospital and seems to have recovered very well.

Mr. Ray Jenkins and his wife Marie were here Saturday and Sunday (his birthday) to play for us. Hymns and songs and we all sang Happy Birthday. He leaves for Florida but he always comes back to play for us. Sorry to report Edna Cowan was taken to the hospital, but glad she is back home again.

Tuesday service was by Rev. Fast, of Minden Gospel Church, Minden.

We welcome one more new resident Bert Harrison from Boshkong Lake.

Do you know what you need to know the use of drugs and alcohol?

The Addiction Research Foundation, an agency of the province of Ontario invites you to use a toll-free information line, where you may listen to any of 60 or more audiotapes in English or French on topics such as drinking and driving, how to talk to a teenager, sex, marijuana & alcohol, caffeine, smoking, gambling, cocaine, common abuse, anxiety and many more designed to help you understand drug and alcohol related problems.

By calling 1-800-387-2916 between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. an operator will assist you in selecting tapes of interest to you. All calls are kept confidential.

To obtain informative brochures on the use of drugs and alcohol, drop into the Haliburton County Information Centre located in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Avenue, Haliburton. The centre is open Monday to Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or you may call 457-2733.

For residents of the Minden area, the centre situated in the Municipal Building Milne Street, is open every Tuesday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or you may call 286-4100.

The movies this week were "Rascal", "The Story of Solo" and "The Lady and the Owl".

Au Revoir. Often cheerfulness is simply the capacity to ignore your unhappiness.

CARD OF THANKS

Jordan, Sharon and Taffy wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stelmach for looking after Taffy when he was lost and hungry, and returning him to us. This is one story with a happy ending!

Sincere thanks go to all our relatives and friends for their thoughtfulness and donations, flowers and cards following the death of husband and father Milton Sears. Special thanks to Ambulance service, Minden Hospital, Ross Memorial, the doctors who gave him great care and attention, staff at Intensive Care, Monk Funeral Home, Father George and to my dear friend Jean Lacey for her many great kindnesses, and to The Times for their kind words.

Jeanne Sears and family

IN MEMORIAM

HUGHES: In loving memory of our dear sons and brothers who passed away suddenly. Laverne, August 20, 1978 and Lanny, November 29, 1982.

Like falling leaves the days slip by
But precious memories never die
They live with us in memory still Not just today but always will.

Ever remembered and sadly missed - Mom, Dad, sister Lenore, Neil and Wendy, Bryce and Cathy and families.

ROBINSON: In loving memory of my dear husband Phillip Arthur who passed away November 18th, 1986.

One year has passed since that sad day
When the one we loved was called away
God took him home, it was His will Within our hearts he liveth still.

Forever loved and sadly missed by wife Florence.

IN MEMORIAM

ROBINSON: In loving memory of Phillip Robinson who passed away suddenly November 18th, 1986.

It's a long, lonely year since you left us, Dad
The best Dad and Grandpa we could have ever had,
With your hearty laugh and your cheery smile
All who knew you loved you for many a mile.

We watched you fight hard, Dad, with us to stay
We didn't want to part with you, that bleak November day

Time has helped but our Dad and Grandpa we'll never forget

The tears still flow so freely yet.

In our Lord's appointed time, we'll meet on that distant shore,
Where we'll all be together forever more.

Sorely missed, always remembered and forever loved - daughter Janice, son Bradley, son-in-law Jack, grandson Doug and granddaughter Karen.
